

MIDNIGHT TRAMP OF THE ROYAL GRENADIERS.

“Into the solemn darkness of the pines and hemlock the column slowly moved, each side being snow four feet deep. It was almost impossible to keep the track, and a mis-step buried the unfortunate up to his neck. Then it began raining”